NEW QUESTION: 1You develop a Windows Communication Foundation (WCF) service that is hosted by using Windows Activation Services (WAS). You need to configure the service to accept requests that use the TCP/IP protocol. What should you do? (Each correct answer presents part of the solution. Choose two.)
A. Run the `aspnet_regiis` executable to enable TCP/IP service activation.
B. Run the `appcmd` executable to enable TCP/IP service activation.
C. In Control Panel, enable the WCF Non-HTTP Activation feature.
D. In Control Panel, enable the Windows Communication Foundation HTTP Activation feature.
Answer: B, D
Explanation: B: Go to the Control Panel -> Program and Features and select Turn Windows features on or off. Then you need to select some options/components to install. Have a look at the picture below to see what those options are D: Example: Now we need to enable those protocols on the CalculatorServiceSite website that hosts our WCF service. In the same Visual Studio 2010 command prompt window type `appcmd.exe set app "Default Web Site/CalculatorServiceSite" /enabledProtocols:http,net.pipe,net.tcp,net.msmsg` Now we have enabled those protocols for our site. Now we are ready to expose endpoints over alternate protocols e.g TCP, MSMQ. In this way we can have our WCF Service hosted in IIS and still consume it over the network with clients that support/understand the TCP/IP protocol. Note: Windows Process Activation Service generalizes the Internet Information Services (IIS) process model, removing the dependency on HTTP. All the features of IIS that were previously available only to HTTP applications are now available to applications hosting Windows Communication Foundation (WCF) services, by using non-HTTP protocols. IIS 7.0 also uses Windows Process Activation Service for message-based activation over HTTP.
