NEW QUESTION: 2 You have a Microsoft 365 subscription. You need to control which third-party apps are available in Microsoft Teams. Which three actions should you perform from the Microsoft Teams settings? Each correct answer presents part of the solution. NOTE: Each correct selection is worth one point.A. Turn off Allow external apps in Microsoft TeamsB. Turn on Allow external apps in Microsoft TeamsC. Turn off Enable new external apps by defaultD. Turn off Allow sideloading of external appsE. Disable the default appsAnswer: A,C,D Explanation: External apps are provided by third parties. You can configure the following settings for external apps.* (B) Allow external apps in Microsoft Teams: When this setting is turned on, users can add external apps that are available to your organization.* (D) Allow sideloading of external apps: If you want to turn on some external apps and turn off others, turn off this setting, and then in the list of external apps, turn off the apps that you don't want users to access. When this setting is turned on, team owners and members who are granted permission can sideload apps to Teams.* (C) Enable new external apps by default: When this setting is turned on, users can activate new apps as soon as they're added to the Teams app catalog. NEW QUESTION: 3 You are a data scientist working for a bank and have used Azure ML to train and register a machine learning model that predicts whether a customer is likely to repay a loan. You want to understand how your model is making selections and must be sure that the model does not violate government regulations such as denying loans based on where an applicant lives. You need to determine the extent to which each feature in the customer data is influencing predictions. What should you do? A. Score the model against some test data with known label values and use the results to calculate a confusion matrix. B. Add tags to the model registration indicating the names of the features in the training dataset. C. Use the Hyperdrive library to test the model with multiple hyperparameter values. D. Enable data drift monitoring for the model and its training dataset. E. Use the interpretability package to generate an explainer for the model. Answer: E

Explanation: When you compute model explanations and visualize them, you're not limited to an existing model explanation for an automated ML model. You can also get an explanation for your model with different test data. The steps in this section show you how to compute and visualize engineered feature importance based on your test data.

Incorrect Answers: A: In the context of machine learning, data drift is the change in model input data that leads to model performance degradation. It is one of the top reasons where model accuracy degrades over time, thus monitoring data drift helps detect model performance issues. B: A confusion matrix is used to describe the performance of a classification model. Each row displays the instances of the true, or actual class in your dataset, and each column represents the instances of the class that was predicted by the model. C: Hyperparameters are adjustable parameters you choose for model training that guide the training process. The HyperDrive package helps you automate choosing these parameters.
