NEW QUESTION: 3 HOTSPOT You have an Exchange Server 2013 organization that contains three servers. The servers are configured as shown in the following table. All of the servers are part of a database availability group (DAG) named DAG1. The databases are configured as shown in the following table. All of the databases replicate between all the members of DAG1. You plan to move all mailboxes from DB1 to DB2. You need to ensure that the passive copies of DB1 are in a healthy state before you move the mailboxes. Which command should you run? (To answer, select the appropriate options in the dialog box in the answer area.) Hot Area:
Answer:
Explanation: Explanation/Reference: Explanation: SECTION1 Set-MailboxServer Use the Set-MailboxServer cmdlet to modify attributes on a computer running Microsoft Exchange with the Mailbox server role installed. Not required in this scenario. Set-MailboxDatabase Use the Set-MailboxDatabase cmdlet to configure a variety of properties for a mailbox database. Set-DatabaseAvailabilityGroup Use the Set-DatabaseAvailabilityGroup cmdlet to configure some of the properties of a database availability group (DAG). The Set-DatabaseAvailabilityGroup cmdlet enables you to manage DAG properties that can't be managed from the Exchange Management Console, such as enabling and disabling cross-site RPC client access, configuring network discovery, selecting the TCP port used for replication, and enabling datacenter activation coordination (DAC) mode. SECTION2 Need to identify the name of the mailbox database. (DB1) SECTION3 The DataMoveReplicationConstraint parameter specifies the throttling behavior for high availability mailbox moves. The possible values include:None Moves shouldn't be throttled to ensure high availability. Use this setting if the database isn't part of a database availability group (DAG).SecondCopy At least one passive mailbox database copy must have the most recent changes synchronized.This is the default value. Use this setting to indicate that the database is replicated to one or more mailbox database copies.SecondDatacenter At least one passive mailbox database copy in another Active Directory site must have the most recent changes replicated. Use this setting to indicate that the database is replicated to database copies in multiple Active Directory sites.AllDatacenters At least one passive mailbox database copy in each Active Directory site must have the most recent changes replicated. Use this setting to indicate that the database is replicated to database copies in multiple Active Directory sites.AllCopies All copies of the database must have the most recent changes replicated. Use this setting to indicate that the database is replicated to one or more mailbox database copies.The database is replicated to database copies in multiple Active Directory sites so eliminate SecondCopy.Unsure of why -AllDatacenters is the final choice but there are 3 Active Directory sites in this scenario.
