-24242内部ユーザーIDStoreでユーザーが見つかりました

-220040間違ったパスワードまたは無効な秘密鍵この問題を解決するにはどうすればよいですか？

認証間隔がクライアントマシンで正しく構成されていることを確認します。D.

RADIUS共有シークレットがNADで正しく構成されていることを確認します。E.

クライアントユーザー資格情報が正しく構成されていることを確認します。Answer: B,D,E

Explanation: When viewing authentication details, error codes 24240, 24242, and 220040 signify that authentication has failed. This issue may arise if invalid credentials are being supplied by the user or the device. To resolve the issue, the client user credentials should be verified to ensure they have been configured correctly. When viewing authentication details, error codes 24240, 24242, and 220040 signify that authentication has failed. This issue may arise if the Remote Authentication Dial-In User Service (RADIUS) key does not match the external authentication source. To resolve the issue, you must ensure that the RADIUS shared key is correctly configured on the network access device (NAD). The shared key must also be the same as what is configured in the Cisco Identity Services Engine (ISE). The 24210, 24242, and 220040 error messages do not signify that you need to verify that the network access device (NAD) IP address is configured correctly. You would generally verify the NAD IP address if the Network Admission Control (NAC) cannot successfully ping the Policy Service Identity Services Engine (ISE) node. You may also want to verify this if Remote Authentication Dial-In User Service (RADIUS) or authentication, authorization, and accounting (AAA) are not functioning in Cisco ISE. The 24210, 24242, and 220040 error messages do not signify that you need to verify if the authentication interval is correctly configured in the client machines. You would generally verify the authentication interval if, after a policy change, authentication fails.
