NEW QUESTION: 1A. Option BB. Option CC. Option AD. Option DAnswer: C*Explanation:An availability group supports a replicated environment for a discrete set of user databases, known as availability databases. You can create an availability group for high availability (HA) or for read-scale. An HA availability group is a group of databases that fail over together. Each set of availability database is hosted by an availability replica. Two types of availability replicas exist: a single primary replica, which hosts the primary databases, and one to eight secondary replicas, each of which hosts a set of secondary databases and serves as a potential failover targets for the availability group.
