NEW QUESTION: 1 Which forwarding table designation is used to indicate that load balancing is working correctly?
A. mlst B. msct C. ucst D. ulst
Answer: D

NEW QUESTION: 2 The dividends distributed by which of the following are taxed as ordinary income?
A. closed-end investment companies B. IBMC C. mutual funds D. real estate investment trusts
Answer: D
Explanation: The dividends distributed by real estate investment trusts are taxed as ordinary income. Dividends on all of the other choices are subject to preferential tax treatment under current tax laws.

NEW QUESTION: 3 Which of the following techniques would BEST help an IS auditor gain reasonable assurance that a project can meet its target date?
A. Extrapolation of the overall end date based on completed work packages and current resources
B. Confirmation of the target date based on interviews with experienced managers and staff involved in the completion of the project deliverables
C. Calculation of the expected end date based on current resources and remaining available project budget
D. Estimation of the actual end date based on the completion percentages and estimated time to complete, taken from status reports
Answer: A
Explanation: Direct observation of results is better than estimations and qualitative information gained from interviews or status reports. Project managers and involved staff tend to underestimate the time needed for completion and the necessary time buffers for dependencies between tasks, while overestimating the completion percentage for tasks underway (80:20 rule). The calculation based on remaining budget does not take into account the speed at which the project has been progressing.
