D. Use section break.Answer: D
Explanation: Section break divides a document in various sections so that different types of formatting can be applied to different pages, e.g., if the document is typed in portrait orientation and the image is to be inserted in landscape orientation then the section break is used. Answer option D is incorrect. Page break is a feature in which the text automatically moves to the next page when it encounters the end of the page. It is also known as soft page break. Page break can also be inserted manually. This is known as hard page break. Answer option C is incorrect. This is not correct because it will insert header on all the pages.
