NEW QUESTION: 3The UPS5000-A-400/500K supports () cabling mode.A. Top and bottomB. TopC. BottomAnswer: A

NEW QUESTION: 4Identify the set of enabled objects that are used for partitioning reference data.A. jobs, grades, salary plan, ratesB. legal entity, department, division, locationC. department, location, jobs, gradesD. enterprise, legal entity, business unit, positionAnswer: CExplanation:When you set up an HCM coexistence environment, you must identify the reference data sets you need. Reference data sets provide a mechanism for separating and sharing definitions of specific business objects among business units. The set-enabled business objects that are relevant to all uses of HCM coexistence are locations, grades, jobs, and departments. Note: Reference data sharing facilitates sharing of configuration data such as jobs and payment terms, across organizational divisions or business units. You define reference data sets and determine how the data is shared or partitioned. Use reference data sets to reduce duplication and maintenance by sharing common data across business entities where appropriate. Depending on the requirement (specific or common), each business unit can maintain its data at a central location, using a set of values either specific to it or shared by other business units.
