NEW QUESTION: 4Refer to the exhibit. What is the purpose of the 'Clock Skew Allowance' setting? (Select two.)
A. to set expiry time in client certificate to a few minutes longer than the default setting B. to set start time in client certificate to a few minutes before current time C. to adjust clock time on client device to a few minutes before current time D. to ensure client certificate validation does not fail due to client clock sync issues E. to ensure server certificate validation does not fail due to client clock sync issues
Answer: D
Explanation/Reference: Explanation: Clock Skew Allowance adds a small amount of time to the start and end of the client certificate's, not the server certificate's, validity period. This permits a newly issued certificate to be recognized as valid in a network where not all devices are perfectly synchronized.
