NEW QUESTION: 1 Which of the following establishes mandatory rules, specifications and metrics used to measure compliance against quality, value, etc? A. Legal requirements B. Practices C. Framework D. Standard Answer: D Explanation: Explanation/Reference: Explanation: Standard establishes mandatory rules, specifications and metrics used to measure compliance against quality, value, etc. Standards are usually intended for compliance purposes and to provide assurance to others who interact with a process or outputs of a process. Incorrect Answers: A: Frameworks are generally accepted, business-process-oriented structures that establish a common language and enable repeatable business processes. B: These are legal rules underneath which project has to be. D: Practices are frequent or usual actions performed as an application of knowledge. A leading practice would be defined as an action that optimally applies knowledge in a particular area. They are issued by a "recognized authority" that is appropriate to the subject matter. Issuing bodies may include professional associations and academic institutions or commercial entities such as software vendors. They are generally based on a combination of research, expert insight and peer review.

NEW QUESTION: 2 To give a user read permission for only the first three columns of a table, which access control method would you use? A. Primitive role B. It's not possible to give access to only the first three columns of a table. C. Predefined role D. Authorized view Answer: D Explanation: An authorized view allows you to share query results with particular users and groups without giving them read access to the underlying tables. Authorized views can only be created in a dataset that does not contain the tables queried by the view. When you create an authorized view, you use the view's SQL query to restrict access to only the rows and columns you want the users to see.
