NEW QUESTION: 3The amount of bone in the elderly skeleton - a key determinant in its susceptibility to fractures - is believed to be a function of two major factors. The first is the peak amount of bone mass attained, determined to a large extent by genetic inheritance. The marked effect of gender is obvious: Elderly men experience only one-half as many hip fractures per capita as elderly women. But also, African-American women have a lower incidence of osteoporotic fractures than Caucasian women. Other important variables include diet, exposure to sunlight, and physical activity. The second major factor is the rate of bone loss after peak bone mass has been attained. While many of the variables that affect peak bone mass also affect rates of bone loss, additional factors influencing bone loss include physiological stresses such as pregnancy and lactation. It is hormonal status, however, reflected primarily by estrogen and progesterone levels, that may exert the greatest effect on rates of decline in skeletal mass. It can be inferred from the passage that the peak amount of bone mass in women A. is not dependent upon genetic makeup B. may be a factor in the rate of decrease in estrogen and progesterone levels C. depends partly upon hormonal status D. is not affected by either pregnancy or lactation E. is determined primarily by diet Answer: D

Explanation: Explanation/Reference: Explanation: The author lists various factors affecting peak bone mass, then asserts that many of these factors also affect the rate of bone loss. In mentioning pregnancy and lactation as "additional factors" affecting bone loss, the author implies that these two factors do not affect peak bone mass.

NEW QUESTION: 4 Which three statements are true about Automatic Workload Repository (AWR)?
