NEW QUESTION: 1 The proposal manager of your company approached you recently. You made some estimates on direct costs for an offer on a firm fixed price contract. As indirect costs are to be calculated as a percentage of the direct costs, the sum of both cost types led him to calculating a far too high price. How should you not react? A. Calculating overheads as a percentage of direct costs is just a model to simplify calculations. A more specific analysis of these costs may lead to a more realistic project price. B. You make the proposal manager aware that a reduction of direct costs may reduce the numbers for overhead cost allocation, but will not influence the actual overheads. C. You reduce your direct cost assessments by reducing the amount of work and the rates allocated to them. This allows a reduction of the overhead costs and a lower price. D. You say that there is no direct link between the price for work to be paid by a customer and the costs occurring on contractor side. It is the sales person's job to make the price. Answer: C

NEW QUESTION: 2 On which port type would you configure STP PortFast BPDU guard? A. designated ports B. host ports C. alternate ports D. root ports Answer: B

NEW QUESTION: 3 You are developing an application that will parse a large amount of text. You need to parse the text into separate lines and minimize memory use while processing data. Which object type should you use? A. StringBuilder B. JsonSerializer C. StringReader D.DataContractSerializer Answer: C Explanation: Explanation There are many ways to separate a string into lines. With StringReader, we read lines from a string individually in the order they appear. This type enables us to access string data through a stream-oriented interface.
