NEW QUESTION: 1 Which statement is true about creating a method at the application module level? (Choose the best answer.)
A. Methods in an application module allow you to manipulate UI components in the ViewController project.
B. Application module methods are best suited to writing validation logic for entity objects.
C. Application module methods provide an interface for the view layer to call custom business logic that may work across multiple data views.
D. You cannot create methods at the application module level.
E. Because ADF provides no way at run time to automatically create or delete view object records, you must create application module methods to do this.
Answer: C
Explanation: Application modules can contain service methods--methods that perform complex operations on data. These methods can be called from clients, requiring very little data manipulation processing in the client itself. Service methods are implemented in an application module's class, and exposed on tier-independent interfaces that allow clients to access the application module consistently, whether it is deployed locally or as an EJB session bean. Inside the service method, you can do any of the following:
Dynamically add view object and view link instances to the data model
Remove view object and view link instances from the data model
Find view object instances and perform operations on their row sets
Retrieve and manipulate transaction objects

NEW QUESTION: 2 A financial analyst is examining shares of Floweration.com, a sprawling Internet "dot com" company, in an attempt to evaluate the firm for possible investment. In her analysis, the financial analyst has determined the following information for the most recent fiscal year: Sales $2,250,000 Total fixed cost $1,300,000 Total variable cost $305,000 Interest expense $5,750 EBIT $645,000 Amortization expense $4,550 Given this information, what is the Degree of Total Leverage for Floweration.com?
A. 1.731 B. 3.043 C. 3.064 D. 2.843 E. 3.488
Answer: B
Explanation: The Degree of Total Leverage (DTL) demonstrates how a given change in sales will impact a firm's EPS. The equation used for calculating the DTL is as follows: $\frac{[\text{Sales} - \text{variable costs}]}{[\text{sales} - \text{variable costs} - \text{fixed costs} - \text{interest expense}]}$ interest expense}]. Incorporating the given values for these components into the DTL equation yields the following: $\frac{[\text{Sales } \$2,250,000 - \text{variable costs } \$305,000]}{[\text{sales } \$2,250,000 - \text{variable costs } \$305,000 - \text{fixed costs } \$1,300,000 - \text{interest expense } \$5,750]} = 3.043$. While somewhat intuitively appealing, "EBIT" and "amortization expense" are not explicitly incorporated into the DTL equation.

NEW QUESTION: 3A company has three different environments: Development, QA, and Production. The company wants to deploy its code first in the Development environment, then QA, and then Production. Which AWS service can be used to meet this requirement?
A. Use AWS CodeDeploy to create multiple deployment groups.
B. Use AWS CodeBuild to create, configure, and deploy multiple build application projects.
C. Use AWS Data Pipeline to create multiple data pipeline provisions to deploy the application.
D. Use AWS CodeCommit to create multiple repositories to deploy the application.
Answer: A
Explanation:
<https://docs.aws.amazon.com/codedeploy/latest/userguide/deployment-groups.html>"You can associate more than one deployment group with an application in CodeDeploy. This makes it possible to deploy an application revision to different sets of instances at different times. For example, you might use one deployment group to deploy an application revision to a set of instances tagged Test where you ensure the quality of the code. Next, you deploy the same application revision to a deployment group with instances tagged Staging for additional verification. Finally, when you are ready to release the latest application to customers, you deploy to a deployment group that includes instances tagged Production. "
