NEW QUESTION: 1 Which option does the FabricPath technology use to create loop-free Layer 2 networks? A. fabric tags B. TTL C. FSTP D. STP Answer: A Explanation: Well, the dump said "TTL" and I think that's not entirely true. TTL ends up a looping packet but the loop can still be there. Fabric path uses IS-IS and the concept of "switch-ids" which could refer to "fabric tags"... There are also the FTag (Forwarding Tag) which specifies which path the packet traverses... Not very clear. If the Q was something like: "Which option does the FabricPath technology use to mitigate Layer 2 loops?" I would have answered TTL.

NEW QUESTION: 3 A user is trying to understand the differences between the various ways apps can be built by using Power Apps. For each of the following statements, select Yes if the statement is true. Otherwise, select No. NOTE: Each correct selection is worth one point.

Answer: Explanation: Explanation: Box 1: Yes You can create a canvas app and then embed that within a model driven app. Box 2: No With the capability to build a portal in PowerApps, you can create a website for external and internal users enabling them to interact with data stored in Common Data Service. Note: Common Data Service lets you securely store and manage data that's used by business applications. Data within Common Data Service is stored within a set of entities. An entity is a set of records used to store data, similar to how a table stores data within a database. Common Data Service includes a base set of standard entities that cover typical scenarios, but you can also create custom entities specific to your organization and populate them with data using Power Query. App makers can then use PowerApps to build rich applications using this data. Box 3: Yes To get started building a report you'll need the latest version of Power BI Desktop and a PowerApps environment with the latest version of the Common Data Service. Reference:
