NEW QUESTION: 3Which of the following are the reasons for implementing firewall in any network?A. Log system activityB. Limit network host exposureC. Limit access controlD. Log Internet activityE. Implementing security policyF. Create a choke pointAnswer: B,D,E,FExplanation:Explanation/Reference:Explanation:A firewall is a part of a computer system or network that is designed to block unauthorized access while permitting authorized communications. It is a device or set of devices configured to permit, deny, encrypt, decrypt, or proxy all computer traffic between different security domains based upon a set of rules and other criteria. The four important roles of a firewall are as follows:1. Implement security policy: A firewall is a first step in implementing security policies of an organization.Different policies are directly implemented at the firewall. A firewall can also work with network routers to implement Types-Of-Service (ToS) policies.2. Creating a choke point: A firewall can create a choke point between a private network of an organization and a public network. With the help of a choke point the firewall devices can monitor, filter, and verify all inbound and outbound traffic.3. Logging Internet activity: A firewall also enforces logging of the errors and faults. It also provides alarming mechanism to the network.4. Limiting network host exposure: A firewall can create a perimeter around the network to protect it from the Internet. It increases the security by hiding internal information.
