NEW QUESTION: 2 HOTSPOT Answer: Explanation: Box 1: DNS Zone Contributor The 'DNS Zone Contributor' role is a built-in role provided by Azure for managing DNS resources. Assigning DNS Zone Contributor permissions to a user or group enables that group to manage DNS resources, but not resources of any other type. Box 2: Add [\[email#160;protected\]](#) The simplest way to assign RBAC permissions is via the Azure portal. Open the 'Access control (IAM)' blade for the resource group, then click 'Add', then select the 'DNS Zone Contributor' role and select the required users or groups to grant permissions. You can search the directory with display names, email addresses, and object identifiers. References: <https://docs.microsoft.com/en-us/azure/dns/dns-protect-zones-recordsets>

The interface of the remote neighbor you receive CDP information 6. Holdtime E. Decremental hold time in seconds Sample output of show cdp neighbors command: One thing I want to notice you is "Local Intrfce" in the image above refers to the local interface on the device you are running the "show cdp neighbors" command

NEW QUESTION: 4 In a MapReduce job, the reducer receives all values associated with the same key. Which statement is most accurate about the ordering of these values?
A. The values are arbitrarily ordered, but multiple runs of the same MapReduce job will always have the same ordering.
B. The values are in sorted order.
C. The values are arbitrarily ordered, and the ordering may vary from run to run of the same MapReduce job.
D. Since the values come from mapper outputs, the reducers will receive contiguous sections of sorted values.
Answer: D
Explanation: Note: *The Mapper outputs are sorted and then partitioned per Reducer. *The intermediate, sorted outputs are always stored in a simple (key-len, key, value-len, value) format. *Input to the Reducer is the sorted output of the mappers. In this phase the framework fetches the relevant partition of the output of all the mappers, via HTTP. *A MapReduce job usually splits the input data-set into independent chunks which are processed by the map tasks in a completely parallel manner. The framework sorts the outputs of the maps, which are then input to the reduce tasks. *The MapReduce framework operates exclusively on <key, value> pairs, that is, the framework views the input to the job as a set of <key, value> pairs and produces a set of <key, value> pairs as the output of the job, conceivably of different types. The key and value classes have to be serializable by the framework and hence need to implement the Writable interface. Additionally, the key classes have to implement the WritableComparable interface to facilitate sorting by the framework. Reference: MapReduce Tutorial
